

Adult Protective Services Training Catalog

Serving Adult Protective Service Workers, Supervisors, and Community Partners

Revised November 14, 2018

Introduction

Welcome to the Ohio Human Services Training System (OHSTS) for Adult Protective Service (APS) Workers! Our mission is to strengthen best practice in adult protective services through comprehensive skill development, collaboration, and advocacy. This training catalog provides an overview of APS trainings available to include core training, eLearnings and ongoing training for caseworkers and supervisors.

Registration for all classroom trainings and eLearnings occur through OHSTS' learning management system (LMS). To request an account, click on this link: <http://www.ohsts.org/lms-addperson.html>

For general information visit us at <http://www.ohsts.org/>. For scheduling questions or to request training, please contact your Regional Training Center (RTC): <http://www.ohsts.org/our-regions.html>.

Ohio Administrative Code 5101:2-20-07 - Education and In-Service Training Requirements for APS Caseworkers and Supervisors

Effective August 1, 2016, adult protective services (APS) caseworkers and APS supervisors hired on or after September 29, 2015 shall complete APS core training. A minimum of eighteen hours of the core training requirements shall be completed through instructor led courses. The remaining core requirements shall be completed through either instructor led or online courses.

- (1) At a minimum, the following APS core training courses shall be completed within the first year of continuous employment:
 - (a) APS laws and regulations.
 - (b) Dynamics of elder abuse.
 - (c) The aging process.
- (2) The following APS core training courses shall be completed at any time during the first two years of continuous employment:
 - (a) APS risk assessment.
 - (b) APS values and ethics.
 - (c) Case planning.
 - (d) Collaboration in APS.
 - (e) Initial investigation.
 - (f) Professional communication.

APS caseworkers shall complete eighteen hours of ongoing training annually in areas relevant to the caseworker's assigned APS duties, after the first two years of continuous employment with the agency as a caseworker.

APS supervisors shall complete fifteen hours of ongoing training annually in areas relevant to the supervisor's assigned APS duties after the first two years of continuous employment with the agency as a supervisor. For supervisors subject to rule 5101:2-33-56 of the Administrative Code, at least six hours of the required thirty hours of ongoing training must be courses related to APS.

APS CORE Training

APS Laws and Regulations

The purpose of this workshop is for Adult Protective Services (APS) staff to understand applicable sections of the Ohio Revised Code (ORC) and Ohio Administrative Code (OAC) related to APS practice and to be able to find the legal reference when needed for application to a specific older adult's circumstances. Participants will work in small groups, formulating team responses to case study-related questions by finding the legal citation that applies to the circumstances of each case. By the end of this workshop, participants will:

- Be familiar with Ohio laws and regulations related to APS practice
- Understand capacity considerations for APS practice
- Understand involuntary interventions possible under Ohio APS law
- Understand the continuum of legal alternatives used to protect older adults

Suggested Audience: APS Staff at all levels and APS Community Partners

Approved Trainers: Melanie Hale, Kevin Kurpieski, Kelly Mettler, Sylvia Pla-Raith

Credits: OHSTS (6 credits); Social Work (5.5 CEUs); Counselor (5.5 CEUs)

Case Planning

In Adult Protective Services (APS), the worker completes the assessment and then develops a case plan with the older adult that includes goals, objectives, and activities to reduce the older adult's risk of maltreatment. When the older adult has the capacity to participate in planning and consent to services, a voluntary case plan is developed. However, in situations where there has been a determination of extreme risk and the older adult lacks capacity or cannot consent to services, involuntary action may be necessary. In this workshop, we will examine how workers come to the conclusion that an involuntary action should be pursued. We will explore the case review process as well as the legal and ethical dilemmas surrounding the decision to use involuntary interventions. By the end of this workshop, participants will be able to:

- Discuss the importance of case plans, case plan essentials, and Ohio's case plan requirements
- Discuss the steps in developing a voluntary and involuntary case plan and factors to consider
- Define involuntary interventions and determine when an involuntary intervention may be indicated
- Explore legal and ethical issues in the decision to use involuntary interventions
- Understand how to gather evidence and document the need for an involuntary intervention

Pre-Requisite: Voluntary Case Planning and Involuntary Case Planning eLearnings

Suggested Audience: APS Staff at all levels and APS Community Partners

Approved Trainers: Theresa Johnson, Kevin Kurpieski, Kelly Mettler

Credits: OHSTS (6 credits); Social Work (5.5 CEUs); Counselor (5.5 CEUs)

Collaboration in APS

In this workshop, participants will learn the benefits, challenges, and barriers to successful collaboration in Adult Protective Services (APS). The fundamental elements and skills critical to effective team building within a collaborative partnership will be presented. Participants will be introduced to the role of an Interdisciplinary Team (I-Team) and Memorandums of Understanding (MOU's) in the field of APS and one's responsibility as a team member. By the end of this workshop, participants will be able to:

- Define collaboration as it applies to work across professional disciplines
- Articulate the benefits, challenges, and barriers to successful collaboration

- Understand the fundamental elements critical to effective team building within a collaborative partnership
- Understand the importance of an I-Team, MOU's, and member roles and responsibilities

Suggested Audience: APS Staff at all levels and APS Community Partners

Approved Trainers: Melanie Hale, Kevin Kurpieski, Kelly Mettler, Sylvia Pla-Raith

Credits: OHSTS (6 credits); Social Work (5.5 CEUs); Counselor (5.5 CEUs)

Dynamics of Older Adult Maltreatment

In this workshop, participants will be able to define older adult abuse, neglect, and exploitation and identify the various dynamics that underlie each. Participants will explore the role of Adult Protective Services (APS) and how dynamics might inform case interventions. By the end of this workshop, participants will be able to:

- Define older adult abuse, neglect, and exploitation as it applies to APS
- Identify various dynamics underlying older adult abuse, neglect, and exploitation
- Explore APS role and how dynamics might inform case interventions
- Identify why some older adults refuse services and remain with their abusers

Suggested Audience: APS Staff at all levels and APS Community Partners

Approved Trainers: Melanie Hale, Kelly Mettler, Carilyn White

Credits: OHSTS (6 credits); Social Work (5.5 CEUs); Counselor (5.5 CEUs)

Ethics, Values and Cultural Competence (eLearning)

The purpose of this eLearning is to “demystify” ethics and offer a practical framework for ethical decision-making on the front lines. It will help Adult Protective Services (APS) professionals become more aware of their own value systems, their approach to decision-making, and it will give workers tools to analyze situations from a culturally competent standpoint. Additionally, this eLearning will assist APS workers in labeling, organizing, and understanding what they see, and it will help them analyze the consequences of the decisions facing them. After completing this eLearning, participants will be able to:

- Identify major APS ethical concepts and practice considerations for case work
- Recognize ethical dilemmas in practice
- List factors that influence ethical decision-making
- Identify the part that culture plays in ethical decision-making
- Apply a framework for ethical and culturally competent decision-making

Initial Investigation

In this workshop, participants will learn how to evaluate initial intake reports for Adult Protective Services (APS) and how to prepare for the initial visit. Participants will be introduced to rapport building strategies when working with older adults and methods for conducting investigations of abuse, neglect, and exploitation. Participants will also learn methods for interviewing alleged perpetrators and how to assess dangerous situations. By the end of this workshop, participants will be able to:

- Define intake and describe the goal of the intake process
- Describe the S.T.O.R.Y. approach and its use in the intake process
- Understand methods for preparing for the initial visit and rapport building strategies when working with older adults
- Describe interviewing strategies when working with alleged perpetrators

- Describe how to assess potentially dangerous situations to remain safe and discuss ways to deescalate these situations

Suggested Audience: APS Staff at all levels and APS Community Partners

Approved Trainers: Melanie Hale, Kevin Kurpieski, Kelly Mettler

Credits: OHSTS (6 credits); Social Work (5.5 CEUs); Counselor (5.5 CEUs)

Professional Communication

In this workshop, Adult Protective Service (APS) workers learn the basic components of professional communication in APS. Participants will understand the importance of fact-finding interviews, preparation techniques, and effective communication strategies. Participants will also learn about various investigative communication strategies and special considerations when working with older adults. By the end of this workshop, participants will be able to:

- Describe the importance of fact-finding interviews and preparation techniques
- Identify effective interviewing skills to enhance professional communication in one's APS role
- Describe various question styles and content that can be used when conducting an investigative interview
- Understand the various special considerations needed when communicating with older adults

Suggested Audience: APS Staff at all levels and APS Community Partners

Approved Trainers: Melanie Hale, Brian Lowery, Kelly Mettler, Carilyn White

Credits: OHSTS (6 credits); Social Work (5.5 CEUs); Counselor (5.5 CEUs)

Risk Assessment

In this workshop, participants understand the importance of risk assessment in Adult Protective Services (APS) practice. Participants will understand how to assess risk across five (5) domains in terms of severity and urgency. Participants will learn the phases of a risk assessment, the difference between risk indicators and risk factors, and how to develop risk reduction case plans. By the end of this workshop, participants will be able to:

- Define risk assessment and its function
- Understand the difference between risk indicators and risk factors
- Understand how to assess risk factors in five (5) domains:
 - Physical Health and Functional Status
 - Behavioral Health Status and Capacity
 - Living Environment Status
 - Financial Status
 - Social Status
- Understand how to assess overall levels of risk in terms of severity, urgency, and likelihood of harm occurring
- Describe considerations when developing risk reduction case plans

Suggested Audience: APS Staff at all levels and APS Community Partners

Approved Trainers: Theresa Johnson, Kevin Kurpieski, Kelly Mettler, Beth Moore, Carilyn White

The Aging Process (eLearning)

Aging is part of the normal physical and developmental life course. As is true in every phase of life, changes that occur in later life offer rewards, opportunities for growth, and physical and developmental challenges. In this dynamic, interactive 90-minute eLearning, participants will receive a basic understanding of the aging process that will enhance their ability to perform investigations and make evaluations.

APS e-Learnings

OHSTS-APS e-Learnings are available through the Learning Management System for APS workers and supervisors only, or county staff with APS responsibilities.

NOTE: While there is no charge to you to complete an eLearning, the OHSTS has purchased a user license for your course attendance. Once you complete your course enrollment, the seat license has been spent and is non-reimbursable. DO NOT complete the course enrollment registration page if you do not intend to immediately complete an eLearning. If you have any questions, please email OHSTS@ihs-trainet.com.

APS Case Documentation and Report Writing (Parts 1, 2 and 3)

This eLearning is divided into three parts. Part one discusses the purpose of Adult Protective Services (APS) case documentation. In part two, workers learn about objective language. Part three outlines documentation equipment and APS confidentiality and reports. By the end of this eLearning, participants will be able to:

- Identify the purpose of accurate, complete and timely documentation
- Recognize clear, concise, and objective language
- Identify four types of equipment used for documentation and how to use them
- Understand the importance of accurate recall and identify at least three memory improvement techniques
- Identify the role that confidentiality plays in documentation
- Identify and correct inappropriate documentation in report writing

APS Worker Safety

This self-paced interactive eLearning guides workers through safety considerations for entering unfamiliar neighborhoods and client's homes. By the end of this eLearning, participants will be able to:

- Recognize three signs of danger and three methods of avoiding or mitigating danger
- Identify the family dynamics that contribute to crisis.
- Demonstrate the steps to prepare for a home visit with safety in mind.
- Describe skills that will defuse violent outbursts.
- Describe the role of the supervisor in maintaining your safety
- Recognize the difference between awareness and hypervigilance
- Have a plan for terminating the interview when needed

Credits: OHSTS (1 credit); Social Work (1 CEU); Counselor (1 CEU)

Assessing APS Clients' Decision-Making Capacity

This eLearning will help participants assess a client's decisional capacity by identifying the factors that affect decisional capacity, understanding the uses and limitations of the tools available to complete capacity assessments, and understanding the value and purpose of a formal capacity evaluation done by a clinical professional. By the end of this eLearning, participants will be able to:

- Define autonomy, capacity and incapacity
- Describe factors that may influence client capacity
- Identify the 3 D's: Dementia, Delirium and Depression
- Describe signs and symptoms that indicate capacity issues
- Identify key questions and approaches used to screen client capacity

Credits: OHSTS (1.5 credits); Social Work (1.5 CEUs); Counselor (1.5 CEUs)

Caregiver or Perpetrator Neglect

This eLearning focuses on neglect that is perpetrated by formal and informal caregivers. This course is designed to help participants develop the tools needed to conduct a neglect investigation and to develop plans to help to reduce the risk of future neglect. By the end of this eLearning, participants will be able to:

- Identify 3 physical and 3 behavioral indicators of caregiver neglect
- Identify 5 factors that contribute to victim risk of neglect
- Assess allegations of caregiver neglect using 5 domains of assessment
- Describe the barriers to determining if neglect is intentional or unintentional
- Identify 3 best practices in interviewing perpetrators
- Define 3 components of service planning

Case Closure in APS NEW

This eLearning is designed to help Adult Protective Services workers explore the natural dynamics that occur at case closure, and the factors to consider in their decision-making process. Participants will learn how to recognize common feelings experienced at the time of closure and their impact on the case closure process, and how to identify criteria and conditions that indicate appropriateness or inappropriateness of closing an APS case. Participants will also apply an essential case closure checklist to case studies. By the end of this eLearning, participants will be able to:

- Recognize common feelings both you and your client may experience at the time of closure and their impact on the case closure process;
- Identify criteria and conditions that indicate appropriateness or inappropriateness of closing an APS case; and
- Apply an essential case closure checklist to case studies.

Credits: OHSTS (1.5 credits); Social Work (1.5 CEUs); Counselor (1.5 CEUs)

Collaboration in APS Work NEW

This eLearning will help Adult Protective Services (APS) professionals work more collaboratively with workers from other agencies. This eLearning will not teach participants how to develop a multidisciplinary team, nor is it focused on working with a specific team. By the end of this eLearning, participants will be able to:

- Define collaboration and explain the benefits of working with other agencies;
- Identify the competencies needed to work collaboratively with other agencies;
- Identify which agencies APS workers can partner with, and explain how they might help and where there might be friction; and
- List basic principles for conflict resolution and describe strategies for discussing areas of potential conflict.

Dynamics of Abusive Relationships NEW

This eLearning will help Adult Protective Services (APS) professionals understand the dynamics of vulnerable adult abuse to enhance victim safety. Participants will learn about the definition of vulnerable adult abuse and the various dynamics, which underlie vulnerable adult abuse including the dynamics of power and control. Participants will explore the role of APS in cases of potential abuse and how power and control dynamics might inform case interventions. Participants will also learn why some victims may refuse services and stay with the abuser. By the end of this eLearning, participants will be able to:

- Define vulnerable adult abuse as it applies to APS;

- Recognize the various dynamics which underlie vulnerable adult abuse, including the dynamics of power and control;
- Explain the role of APS in cases of potential abuse;
- Explore how power and control dynamics might inform case interventions; and
- Identify why some victims refuse services and stay with the abuser.

Elder Sexual Abuse

This self-paced interactive eLearning teaches participants the myths and realities of sexual violence as it relates to APS clients. Participants learn how to recognize and discuss sexual victimization, how to screen for and interview clients regarding sexual abuse and what interventions to offer victims. TRIGGER ALERT: This eLearning includes a video interview of an elderly woman who was raped by her grandson. If you or a family member/friend have experienced a sexual assault, please be sure to have a trusted individual available to debrief your reaction to video in case it triggers anxiety. At the end of this eLearning, participants will be able to:

- Identify the myths and realities of sexual violence as it relates to APS clients
- Discuss the dynamics of sexual victimization
- Recognize the signs of potential sexual abuse among your clients
- Effectively screen for and interview clients regarding sexual abuse
- Offer helpful interventions to victims

Financial Exploitation: An Introduction

In this engaging and highly interactive introductory eLearning, participants gain foundational information about the necessary and essential components for effective financial exploitation investigations. Participants will understand common victim and perpetrator characteristics; learn the various types of financial exploitation; understand decision making capacity and undue influence as they are related to financial exploitation cases; and describe the primary components of a financial exploitation investigation.

Credits: OHSTS (1 credit); Social Work (1 CEU); Counselor (1 CEU)

Financial Exploitation: Deed Theft and Foreclosure Rescue Scams

Deed theft and foreclosure rescue scams are not new, and as we will see, they have changed over time. Resources built up over a lifetime have often been lost because these financial abuse perpetrators have convinced unwitting seniors to take their advice. With financial abuse on the rise, it is often the Adult Protective Services (APS) worker that first learns about these crimes, and quick action based on thorough knowledge about these types of scams may mean the difference between financial well-being and financial tragedy of the affected seniors. At the end of this eLearning, participants will be able to:

- Define quitclaim deed theft and foreclosure rescue scams
- Describe the indicators of the crimes
- Identify the steps to take in an investigation
- Identify partners in the field

Credits: OHSTS (1 credit); Social Work (1 CEU); Counselor (1 CEU)

Financial Exploitation: Identity Theft and Credit Card Fraud

Identity theft and credit card fraud are two of the fastest growing crimes in the United States. Many of us have been victimized by one or the other; or know someone who has been victimized. Elders and dependent adults may be particularly vulnerable as they often are not as technologically savvy as many younger persons, and they may tend to trust others when it comes to financial transactions. At the end of this eLearning, participants will be able to:

- Identify specific types of identity theft and credit card fraud
- Describe the elements of the crimes
- Identify the steps to take in the investigation
- Identify partners in the field

Credits: OHSTS (1 credit); Social Work (1 CEU); Counselor (1 CEU)

Financial Exploitation: Living Trust and Annuities Scams

Living trusts and annuities are legitimate estate planning tools and/or documents that can be used legally for financial planning, or as a form of investment. Unfortunately, many unscrupulous persons have used them to defraud unsuspecting victims. In this eLearning, you will learn about living trusts and annuities, and how they may be used to victimize unsuspecting persons. At the end of this module, participants will be able to:

- Define an 'inappropriate' annuity and identify indicators that may result in financial abuse
- Define living trust scams and identify indicators that may result in financial abuse
- Identify steps to take in the investigation
- Identify partners in the field

Credits: OHSTS (1 credit); Social Work (1 CEU); Counselor (1 CEU)

Financial Exploitation: Power of Attorney Abuse

The subject of the Power of Attorney Abuses (POA) eLearning is to provide information about the various types of Power of Attorney documents that exist and indicators that Power of Attorney abuse may be taking place. This eLearning will also discuss the steps to pursue in investigating a possible Power of Attorney abuse case, as well as various types of legal remedies that can be pursued if Power of Attorney abuse is identified; as well as information on various professional partners that may assist you in intervening in one of these cases. At the end of this eLearning, participants will be able to:

- Define specific types of POA abuse
- Identify indicators of POA abuse
- Describe the steps to take in the investigation
- Identify partners in the field

Credits: OHSTS (1 credit); Social Work (1 CEU); Counselor (1 CEU)

Financial Exploitation: Reverse Mortgage Abuse

While reverse mortgages are a legal financial tool that allows homeowners to take out a loan against the equity in their home and to receive advance sums against the future sale of the property, some of the aspects of reverse mortgages make this an undesirable option for some seniors. In addition, some unscrupulous reverse mortgage sellers may take advantage of seniors seeking reverse mortgages to secure large commissions for themselves, or to outright defraud customers of their funds. In order to protect clients, it is important to understand: what reverse mortgages are, when it is appropriate to pursue a reverse mortgage, and some tactics that unscrupulous sellers may use to take unfair advantage of or defraud senior customers. At the end of this module, participants will be able to:

- Describe reverse mortgages
- Define reverse mortgage abuse
- Identify reverse mortgage protections
- Describe the elements of the crime
- Identify the steps to take in an investigation

Credits: OHSTS (1 credit); Social Work (1 CEU); Counselor (1 CEU)

Financial Exploitation: Undue Influence

The undue influence eLearning explores undue influence, its relationship to financial abuse, indicators of undue influence, and information pertinent to investigating cases of alleged financial abuse where undue influence may be a factor. At the end of this eLearning, participants will be able to:

- Define undue influence
- Recognize the elements of undue influence
- Identify the steps to take in the investigation
- Identify partners in the field with whom to work the case

Interviewing Skills for APS Workers (Parts 1, 2 and 3)

This eLearning is a three-part series on Interviewing Skills for Adult Protective Service (APS) workers. The purpose of part one of this course is to teach caseworkers how to prepare for an effective APS interview. In part two, workers learn basic interviewing skills. Part three discusses how to structure a fact-finding interview and how to best structure questions during an interview.

Credits: OHSTS (1.5 credits); Social Work (1.5 CEUs); Counselor (1.5 CEUs)

Involuntary Case Planning for APS Workers (Parts 1, 2 and 3)

This eLearning is a three-part series on Involuntary Case Planning for Adult Protective Service (APS) workers. Providing services against client's wishes can be a difficult ethical dilemma for workers. It is important to give staff the opportunity to examine their motivations as well as set forth the standard for appropriate APS intervention. The purpose of this eLearning module is to learn how to identify involuntary interventions and when their use is appropriate. At the end of this eLearning, participants will be able to:

- Define involuntary services and when involuntary intervention may be indicated
- Identify those situations where the client's immediate safety takes precedence over the client's right to self-determination
- Explore ethical issues in the worker's decision to use involuntary intervention
- Document information needed to justify the use of involuntary intervention
- Identify the appropriate resources needed to be able to implement an involuntary case plan
- Develop and defend an involuntary intervention plan

Mental Health and APS - Part 1

Part 1 of this eLearning is designed for Adult Protective Service (APS) workers who are unfamiliar with working with persons who are living with a mental illness or as a "refresher" in working with this population. It is intended as an introduction and to support on-going and additional study of mental health issues.

Credits: OHSTS (1 credit); Social Work (1 CEU); Counselor (1 CEU)

Mental Health and APS - Part 2

Part 2 of this eLearning is intended to be taken after the Mental Health in Older Adults - Part 1 eLearning. It is designed for Adult Protective Service (APS) workers who are unfamiliar with working with persons who are living with a mental illness.

Credits: OHSTS (1 credit); Social Work (1 CEU); Counselor (1 CEU)

Physical and Developmental Disabilities

This eLearning is designed to teach participants about the unique ways in which Adult Protective Service (APS) workers may work a case with an individual with a physical, cognitive or developmental disability. At the end of this eLearning, participants will be able to:

- Recognize how certain disability characteristics make a victim more vulnerable to abuse
- Recognize effective communication strategies to accommodate persons with disabilities

Credits: OHSTS (1.5 credits); Social Work (1.5 CEUs); Counselor (1.5 CEUs)

Responding to Elder Physical Abuse and Neglect

This self-paced interactive eLearning brings together forensic research, geriatric medical information tailored for elder physical abuse investigators, and practical field skills. Learn to differentiate between suspicious and non-suspicious situations and develop your strategies for investigating when physical abuse is suspected. Upon completion of this eLearning, participants will be better able to:

- Recognize situations that constitute a medical emergency and know how to react appropriately
- Effectively document injuries using common medical terminology, descriptive case narratives, body maps and photography
- Differentiate between signs of physical abuse and common age-related changes
- Recognize situations where the victim or caretaker's description of how injuries occurred does not match the injuries
- Evaluate whether injuries are likely to be the result of abuse when the victim is non-verbal or has other communication barriers

Risk Assessment in APS

Every day, Adult Protective Services (APS) staff are responsible for making determinations of clients' safety and risk, which can be the most difficult aspects of their work. In this self-paced, interactive eLearning, participants learn to assess the severity, urgency and likelihood of harm occurring for a client across five domains. They will also learn the benefits and limitations of risk assessment tools and how to develop risk-reduction service plans to help improve clients' safety, security, and quality of life.

Substance Abuse and Older Adults

This e-learning is designed for Adult Protective Service (APS) workers who are unfamiliar with working with persons with substance abuse issues or for workers who require a "refresher" in working with clients who have substance abuse issues. At the end of this eLearning, participants will be able to:

- Define the scope of the problem of addiction amongst the mature population
- Apply the four diagnostic criteria that differentiate addiction from substance abuse
- Explain how addiction transmits its affect to family members through attachments and why all family members need services
- Use recovery programs and other resources are antidotes to ageism, isolation, societal denial, loss, grief and depression
- Use culturally appropriate and strength-based intervention techniques to use with family members

Working with Self-Neglecting Clients (Parts 1, 2 and 3)

In this 3-part eLearning, participants will learn to:

- Define self-neglect, its prevalence and indicators
- Distinguish self-neglect from other conditions
- Assess self-neglect in five domains
- Develop safety and risk reduction interventions for self-neglecting adults
- Document appropriate elements in self-neglect cases
- Identify community partners in self-neglect cases

Ongoing Specialized and Related Training for Caseworkers

A Diversity of Beliefs (3hr)

Do your elderly clients sometimes bring up their religious views to you? Often time diversity issues are uncomfortable to discuss, but perhaps the most sensitive inclusion issue presently is religious diversity. Such discussions with coworkers, clients or community partners require a respectful response to the issues of faith which may arise in the workplace. Attend to practice “speed-faithing” to learn a bit about the beliefs of others, and to become comfortable with posing culturally sensitive questions. Leave with a basic understanding of the world’s largest religions and how to have polite discussions about faith with older adults.

American Heart Association Heartsaver First Aid – CPR.AED

Heartsaver First Aid CPR AED is a classroom, video-based, instructor-led workshop that teaches participants critical skills needed to respond to and manage a first aid, choking or sudden cardiac arrest emergency in the first few minutes until emergency medical services (EMS) arrives. This workshop is video-led and teaches the lifesaving skills of Adult, Child and Infant CPR; including the use of the AED machine. In addition, participants will learn how to assist a victim who is choking. Skills are taught by using the AHA’s research-proven practice-while-watching technique, which provides participants with hands-on CPR practice time. This workshop is limited to 6 participants (APS and DJFS staff only) per session.

An Overview of Heroin and Opiate Addiction (3hr and 6hr)

Tragically, opioid and heroin addiction have become common place in American society. While opiate and heroin addiction have many tragic outcomes, the addictive powers of these substances have created a crisis for social service professionals who serve older adults. Although most individuals associate heroin/opiate addiction with younger generations, the older adult population has unique characteristics that create vulnerabilities for substance use disorders of heroin and opiates. As such, social service professionals hold a vital role when working with aging consumers who are impacted by heroin/opiate addiction. Additionally, older adults are also victimized by relatives and associates who are using opiates/heroin. This workshop offers an overview of heroin and opiate addiction and its relevance with older adults. Specifically, this workshop identifies common trends associated with heroin and opiate use as well as the impact on the lives of older adults. Evidenced-based treatment strategies for opiate addiction will also be discussed within this educational workshop.

APS Legal Framework and Non-Voluntary Interventions

This workshop will review Adult Protective Service (APS) legal mandates and interventions which are unique to APS to protect older vulnerable adults from the adverse consequences of maltreatment. We will review the legal criteria required to petition Probate Court for a Protective Service Order. Key elements include the outcome of the APS investigation, the adult's capacity and ability to consent for protective services and potential consequences to the adult if no action is taken. Attendees will learn when and how to effectively consider Protective Services Orders to protect high risk adults. In addition, we explore other civil legal interventions such as guardianship and civil commitment to best assist adults. The workshop will review the principles of APS, by further examining the elements of autonomy, choices, least restrictive alternative and mandate to protect the victim. Several case studies will be discussed with opportunities for participants to utilize their learning.

Assessing Adult Protective Services Clients' Decision-Making Capacity

The purpose of this workshop is to assist Adult Protective Services professionals in identifying the factors that affect their clients' decisional capacity, and to identify when to seek a professional evaluation. Trying to decide if clients can make informed decisions about their situations and care is one of the greatest challenges faced by APS caseworkers. In this workshop, participants will be better able to: define autonomy, capacity, and incapacity; understand factors that may influence client capacity; recognize signs and symptoms that indicate capacity issues; identify key questions and approaches used to screen client capacity, including working with special populations and identify implications for case planning because of a finding of limited capacity.

Business Etiquette (3hrs)

Rules of etiquette govern both social and business protocols. In today's fast-paced, digital, multicultural world business etiquette skills can sometimes get lost in the shuffle. Business etiquette is an important element for human and social service workers to observe order to create a professional workplace. Workers should be aware of behaviors that are appropriate for the workplace and those that detract from a professional environment. The workshop will stress the importance of creating a positive interaction among employees. By the conclusion of this part of the workshop, participants should have a clear understanding of their workplace strengths and how their behavioral choices influence how they are perceived by others.

Chill Out: Managing Your Anger and Theirs

Human Services workers have different constraints than those working in the private sector. They don't have the flexibility of declaring, "the customer is always right". And, they have more impact on people's lives. The difficult position of having to deal with angry, hostile people can cause a worker's own anger to flare up, leading to an adverse reaction from their clients and a potentially dangerous situation. This workshop is designed to help the worker prevent and defuse, not only their own anger but, also, the anger of the people they're dealing with.

Conducting Safe Home Visits

Do you visit your client's homes? Do you know how to keep yourself and your client safe during your visit? One in four workers will be attacked, harassed, or threatened on the job, yet workplace violence is preventable, even when you are on their turf. Because episodes of violence are hard to predict, it is advisable for all workers to possess skills in detecting potentially disruptive situations and defusing them. This workshop will present both organizational and individual strategies that can be implemented in social service settings to curtail violent episodes. The Violence Cycle, when and how to interrupt it, will be discussed. Come prepared to tell your own “war stories” and increase the skills and knowledge you need to keep yourself and others safe at work. Leave knowing how to keep yourself safe during home visits, and how to prevent yourself from becoming a victim of crime.

Delving Into Elder Sexual Abuse

The World Health Organization defines elder abuse as a "single or repeated act, or lack of appropriate action, occurring within any relationship where there is an expectation of trust, which causes harm or distress to an older person." Sexual abuse is considered a subset of elder abuse. The intent of this workshop is to equip participating professionals with the information, skills and strategies needed to allow for client-focused assistance to sexually abused elders of any sex, race, gender expression or sexual orientation. To fulfill its intent, this interactive workshop will utilize videos, actual case scenarios, group activities, small and large discussions. By the end of this workshop, participants will:

- Know prevalence and characteristics of sexually abused elders in Ohio
- Recognize and acknowledge the power and control dynamics of elder abuse
- Recognize signs of elder sexual abuse
- Know elder survivors' understandings and perspectives of having been sexually abused
- Know how to use "secure silence" as an interviewing technique
- Know how to assist survivors with decision making by utilizing APS Principles and Guiding Practices
- Be aware of survivor healing over the lifespan strategies
- Identify ways to respond to abuse with culturally appropriate interventions
- Identify interdisciplinary approaches and collaboration

Diabetes in the Older Adult Population

Research indicates diabetes primarily affects individuals who are age 60 and older. Furthermore, it is estimated more than 12 million adults age 60 and older have diabetes. Due to the aging process diabetes can have a devastating effect on the older adults' quality of life and survival rate. Therefore, it is imperative for Adult Protective Service workers and Community Partners to understand the effects of diabetes on the older adult and learn how to develop a service plan for their older adult clients. This workshop focuses on the importance of a comprehensive approach to the management of diabetes in the older adult population. Upon completion of this workshop, participants will be able to:

- Describe the aging process
- Identify the different types of diabetes
- Understand how diabetes is diagnosed
- List various treatment and management therapies
- Understand the short-term and long-term complications of diabetes
- Understand how a service plan is formulated to assist an older adult client with diabetes

Documentation with a Purpose

Documentation is one of the primary duties of a worker. Workers are responsible for documenting all interactions with clients, which include phone calls, home visits, interactions with collateral contacts, and more. Workers are unable to write down everything a client says or does therefore being able to summarize and document the highlights of the contact is essential. These notes, while written and documented at the time of the incident, could be used later such as a court appearance. Therefore, well-written notes that are clear and concise are essential for all social service workers. This training is an interactive training, which allows workers to develop skills to improve their case documentation.

Domestic Violence in Later Life (3hr and 6hr)

Researchers conducting the 2010 National Elder Mistreatment Study, published in the American Journal of Research, discovered that much of physical violence against individuals ages 60 years and older was perpetrated by a partner. The same study suggests that one in ten older adult's experiences one or more forms of violence, abuse, neglect, or exploitation. As 10,000 baby boomers turn 65 every day, it is imperative that protective service workers and their communities commit to meet the needs of older survivors of domestic violence and the relevance of compounded trauma. The intent of this workshop is to equip participating professionals with the information, skills and strategies needed to improve identification of DV in Later Life and offer survivor-centered, safety-oriented and trauma-informed responses. To fulfill its intent, this interactive workshop will utilize videos, actual case scenarios, group activities, and small and large group discussions. By the end of this workshop, participants will:

- Understand the interrelationship between domestic violence and elder abuse;
- Recognize common dynamics of domestic violence perpetrated against older victims;
- Understand key principles and best practices for safe interventions with perpetrators and survivors of domestic violence;
- Identify appropriate services, resources and essential action steps for working with older survivors.

Ethical Dilemmas, Difficult Life Decisions

A guardian's decision-making for an adult with diminished capacity can lead to many difficult ethical situations. National Standards of Practice and Ohio Supreme Court's Rule 66 provide guidance about the ethical principles guardians should use. These principles will be discussed, as well as the legal concepts of substituted judgment and best interest. Group discussion of specific case scenarios will be conducted utilizing these legal concepts and ethical principles. Groups will then report back to the full group for additional discussion, question and answer time. By the end of this workshop, participants will be able to:

- Distinguish between the legal decision-making concepts of "substituted judgment" and "best interest."
- Identify and use the ethical principles for guardians contained in the National Standards and Supreme Court Rule 66.
- Understand when seeking guardianship might address an ethically difficult situation for a vulnerable adult.

Ethics are Forever

There are two common misconceptions regarding ethics in today's society. Our exposure to the "situational ethics" of some creates the impression that ethics can be used conveniently rather than consistently. A second problem is that employers often think that a written Code of Ethics will foster ethical behavior. This workshop is designed to dispel those myths and will focus on how to apply ethics to the daily decisions you make as a helping professional and a customer-driven agency.

From Confrontation to Collaboration

When conflict arises with clients or service providers we have two choices; dread the occurrence of conflict or welcome it with open arms. While welcoming conflict may seem strange, those who understand the benefits of resolved conflict tend to have a more positive attitude about conflict and are more productive at managing it for results. By the end of this workshop, participants will understand why most people find conflict difficult and the benefits to resolving conflict; and will learn tools and strategies for effectively resolving conflict and building collaborative relationships with clients and colleagues.

Gangs, Cliques, and Crews

Vulnerable adults are at risk of manipulation and victimization by family members who are involved in gang activity and move in with the vulnerable adult. APS workers who service vulnerable adults in the community must be able to assess possible gang activity in the client's home to protect them. This workshop deals with assisting participants in understanding indicators of gang activity, awareness of gang signs, symbols, methodology, and threats to client and worker safety, and how to devise a safety plan that involves law enforcement, responsible family members and community supports.

Human Trafficking: Modern Day Slavery

Human Trafficking has received increasing attention in recent years. Ohio has gone from a state where very little was understood, and little public policy addressed the issue to identifying a growing number of victims within our state. This workshop will provide an in-depth look into human trafficking and help participants become familiar with what victim's experience. Participants will learn observation skills to determine questions to ask vulnerable adults and assist with identifying and assisting victims of human trafficking.

Interviewing Those with Age Related Disabilities

Getting clear and accurate information from social service clients can be challenging regardless of their age or state of wellness. It is especially difficult to conduct an effective interview with a person who is both aging and has a significant impairment as well. This workshop addresses the respectful way to regard and treat people with disabilities and gives specific instruction as to how to effectively gather information from individuals who are elderly, physically disabled, or experiencing dementia, or mental health issues. This highly interactive workshop will help participants hone skills and share experiences. Leave with some new ideas as to how to be successful in assisting every interviewee you encounter.

Keeping Vulnerable Populations Safe in Cyberspace

Loneliness, social isolation, mental challenges and lack of internet savvy can put vulnerable clients at risk for identity theft, financial exploitation, internet scams and internet addiction. Also, workers who engage in online relationships with clients and their families put them at risk for confidentiality breeches and dual relationship boundary crossings. This workshop deals with internet maladies and what workers can do to help protect vulnerable population clients who use computers to bank, surf the net and social network. Participants will understand why vulnerable population clients may be more of a target by cyber predators than typical adults.

Managing Time Conflicts to Reduce Stress for Human Service Workers

Fifty percent of workers say their workload this year is more demanding than last year (Harris Interactive). It is fact that today’s worker is working longer hours than ever before. It is also a fact that the average person wastes between two and three hours per day! (The 26 Hour Day, Vince Panella). There is the potential to get more done each day if we learn to maximize the power each hour. Although stress is a reality of working in the modern work world, it does not have to hinder our work performance. In fact, we can harness the power of stress by simply changing the way we think about stress.

Motivational Interviewing: Preparing the Elderly for Change

APS Caseworkers are frequently challenged by a client's lack of motivation to change negative behaviors, which have contributed to risk to their health and safety. This is particularly true in the case of individuals who are struggling with substance use disorders. Motivational Interviewing is an evidence-based counseling style which adopts a brief intervention format, using critical elements that serve as catalysts for motivation and change. Motivational Interviewing addresses how to strengthen client intrinsic motivation to change and reduce ambivalence. This workshop serves as an introduction to Motivational Interviewing and gives participants the basic tools necessary to incorporate this intervention into their practice.

Prescription Pain Pills and Heroin Hurt

In May 2011 the Ohio Governor signed a bill cracking down on “pill mills.” These dispensaries, advertised as “pain management clinics,” were out of control. In 2008 Ohio pharmacists filled 2.7 million prescriptions for “high-powered painkillers such as OxyContin and Percocet,” nearly one for every four people in the state. Although this law has taken a bite out of the prescription drug trade in Ohio, it has also created a new market, one for heroine dealers. Heroine is the most effective painkiller in existence, and it has filled in the gap left by the clamp down on prescription drugs. Attend this workshop to learn more about the state of our state as it pertains to heroine and prescription medication abuse.

Success Working in the Multi-Generational Workplace

Today, our society is composed of people who represent four different generations. Each generation has its own set of values, standards and communication preferences. Effectively engaging APS clients, co-workers and community partners requires a working knowledge of generational diversity. This workshop deals with understanding the four generations in the workplace: Traditionalist (Matures) 1900-1945, Baby Boomers – 1946-1964, Generation X – 1965-1980 Generation Y (Millennium) 1980-Present. We will explore the culture of the four generations and how these generations can work together more effectively. We will look at the evolution of the generations, how they overlap and the barriers that causes misunderstanding in communication and the overall working relationships.

Teaming with the Aggressive Client

Aggression is anger in action. The angry client uses aggression to do or get what they want. The aggression occurs as a response to frustration, a perceived form of psychological stress. One approach to diffusing a client's aggression is communicating synergy in our casework practice. This workshop deals with the concept of using synergy (goal centric teamwork) between social service workers and their clients. Participants will learn the root cause of client's aggression and why clients may feel they need to use aggression and useful strategies to help clients transform the energy from aggression into energy for service plan completion. This workshop will also help to develop an increased knowledge and an opportunity to better assist a diverse population of underserved, vulnerable older adults.

The Role of APS in Questioning Capacity Versus Competency

Mental capacity is complex, multidimensional, and can be affected by many factors. Adults can be mentally incapacitated for a multitude of reasons, including cognitive impairment, psychosis, alcoholism, and severe developmental disabilities. Professionals that erroneously assume capacity on behalf of an adult can cause significant harm to the adult. Professionals serving vulnerable adults carry a substantial responsibility to avoid premature and unsupported conclusions regarding a client's cognitive abilities. Knowing when to seek formal evaluations based on professional observations and collateral data is critical. In this workshop, attendees will obtain detailed information on the factors that influence capacity and examine practical screening tools to effectively conduct cognitive screenings to avoid inaccurate assumptions regarding the adult's abilities.

Understanding Mood Disorders

Mood disorders are one of the most prevalent psychiatric conditions there are and can affect people across their life-spans. They account for 25 percent of patients being seen in public health agencies, 65 percent of psychiatric outpatients and as much as 10 percent of all patients seen in general practice medical settings. Mood disorders affect millions of Americans and are expected to be the leading cause of disability in the world by 2020. This workshop will cover the prevalence, course and diagnostic criteria for the most common mood disorders according to the DSM-5. Treatment options when working with vulnerable adults will also be discussed with a special emphasis on the importance of a multi-systemic and holistic approach to wellness.

Understanding Schizophrenia

Schizophrenia is a psychosis that results in the loss of contact with reality along with major personality derangements. Even though this disorder has been identified for centuries, individuals suffering from this disorder can still be confusing and frightening for professionals who work with them. Family members who meet criteria for schizophrenia can be especially risky to vulnerable adults in the home. This workshop will cover the information all workers must have to work with this population.

Unleashing the Power of Diversity

Powerful partnerships can occur between any two people who are focused on a common goal. To increase the potential for creativity and innovation, one might choose to partner with someone of a different culture. The unique perspectives of such cross-cultural alliances have the capacity to alleviate individual points of view and stimulate new “viewing points” to enhance problem solving, decision making and planning. Come and discover how to partner at a new level, a better level than you ever thought possible. Learn how to appropriately confront biases in yourself and others in a way that resolves them. Leave with many tools to assist you in communicating compassionately, and problem solving cooperatively with others regardless of their cultural origins.

When to Choose Guardianship

This workshop will include a discussion of how to assess cognitive capacity when considering whether the person needs a guardian, of four questions that need to be answered in that process, and what informal and formal alternatives exist that are less restrictive and that may provide protections without removing basic rights. Session participants will work in small groups with 5 scenarios to apply these concepts. There is an outline of Ohio's probate court process, the Ohio Supreme Court's Rule 66 for courts and guardians and, finally, a discussion of the national ethics and standards "best practice" for guardians. By the end of this workshop, participants will be able to:

- List concepts important to assessing capacity for an adult;
- Choose the Least Restrictive Alternative to meet the adult's needs;
- Understand Ohio's court processes to obtain a guardian for an adult;
- Learn the requirements of Supreme Court Rule 66; and
- Identify best practice principles in guardianship.

Module 1: Developing a Management Mindset and Skillset

You did it! After several rounds of interviewing you have been selected for promotion in a social service organization. It quickly becomes clear that you have a lot to learn about how to get work done through other people. Attend this training to discuss the roles, responsibilities and initial skill sets to be acquired by a newly promoted manager. Practice several strategies designed to build your skills in coaching, mentoring, and mobilizing staff to provide more effective services to vulnerable adults and their families. Leave with increased confidence and competence in helping others do their best work under your supervision to promote strength-based services. As a result of attending this workshop, participants will:

- Be cognizant of the roles, responsibilities, basic skills and awareness needed by a new leader to launch a successful management career.
- Recognize and learn how to address the initial obstacles to establishing oneself as an agency leader.
- Understand the difference between coaching and mentoring and be able to assess which strategy to employ to develop staff in a targeted and efficient manner.
- Learn how to use developmental feedback and effective inquiry to spur improved staff performance and increase their judgment making skills.

- Complete an action plan to develop effective coaching roles and skills as a new supervisor.

Module 2: Purpose Driven Planning and Action

The work unit that a new supervisor leads reflects the larger organization in which it exists. The culture of the organization, its' purpose, goals, standards, policies and procedures all influence the work of each department. This training asks supervisor's attending to construct a purpose-critical structure in their work unit by shaping the culture of the unit, setting both task and relationship oriented annual goals, underlying those goals with behavioral performance standards, and writing and interpreting policies and procedures in such a manner that the job gets done right, on time, every time to promote effective services to vulnerable adults and their families. As a result of attending this workshop, participants will:

- Visualize the organization in its ideal state and explore ideas as to how to lead it in the right direction.
- Recognize the dynamics at play within their organizational culture and verbalize ways to ensure their unit culture supports the mission of the agency and the work of the unit.
- Be able to direct staff in writing a unit purpose statement, annual goals, performance standards, policies and procedures.
- Appreciate the way in which adults learn and know the steps in teaching staff new behaviors and thinking.

Module 3: Leading Change

The helping professions are in a state of rapid change, causing instability, rumors and frustration throughout social service systems. The truth is, changes are likely to continue to impact service delivery over the next decade at unprecedented rates, and those who resist will be left along the way. Attend this training to apply Kotter's Eight Steps for Leading Change to plan and implement upcoming changes into your system promoting strength-based services to vulnerable adults and their families. Come away with renewed commitment and confidence in facilitating successful and enduring change in your workplace. As a result of attending this workshop, participants will:

- Appreciate the nine steps to becoming a change agent.
- Understand why and how people resist change.
- Learn how to apply Kotter's Eight Steps to Leading Change to an upcoming change in your workplace.
- Learn strategies to lessen resistance to change by engaging and involving staff in planning and implementing lasting change.

Module 4: Building a Cooperative and Collaborative Team

It is sometimes daunting to manage a variety of individuals in a manner that consistently promotes professional growth and capitalizes on each person's unique talents. It becomes even more challenging to pull those diverse individuals into a team that communicates effectively, cooperates freely with one another and collaborates spontaneously when issues must be solved together. This training addresses dynamics of team functioning and gives insights into generational and individual differences that, if properly leveraged, can lead to heightened team performance and promote strength-based services to vulnerable adults and their families. As a result of attending this workshop, participants will:

- Appreciate the components of cooperation and will be able to lay the groundwork for a cooperative spirit to develop within a work team.

- Be aware of the common barriers to clear, candid team communication and how to deconstruct these barriers as they arise.
- Consider methods to create team synergy in teams where diversity is present.
- Learn how to identify primary work styles of each of their team members and how to pair staff appropriately to accomplish work in the most efficient and harmonious manner.

Module 5: Addressing Unwanted Team Behaviors

Today's workplace is rife with misbehavior; rumors, gossip, sabotage, unwarranted criticism, sexual harassment, bullying, unresolved conflict, ethical lapses, complaints, tattling, and low morale impacting services to vulnerable adults. Everyone thinks everyone else needs some discipline! Sources of team stress are everywhere, causing staffers to exhibit less than their best selves. This training offers effective interventions for these issues, along with resources to assure that leaders are aware of their responsibilities under current state and federal anti-discrimination laws. As a result of attending this workshop, participants will:

- Be aware of common unwanted team behaviors and how to expediently and effectively address them with integrity and confidence.
- Understand their responsibilities under the ADA, ADEA, Civil Rights Acts of 1964 and 1991, GINA and HIPAA.
- Understand stress management and reward techniques designed to address and lower team stress while boosting morale.
- Learn how to facilitate the creation of "daily team ethics" to regulate team behavior in a value driven manner.

Module 6: Performance Appraisal Magic

When you hear the words "performance appraisal" do they make you want to yawn, tremble, or flee? Often supervisors and managers dread giving appraisals every bit as much as staffers fear receiving them. The repercussions of an anger-provoking performance appraisal can lead to retaliatory actions, and decreased performance on the part of the disgruntled employee impacting services to vulnerable adults. This can leave the manager feeling punished for their hard work in preparing and delivering a comprehensive evaluation of their subordinate's work. If this mindset exists in your workplace, you can reverse this downward trend by creating an "incubator for talent" in your work domain. Performance appraisal is an opportunity for line staff and leadership to come together in an intimate conspiracy that inspires performance excellence impacting services to vulnerable adults. In this era of "coaching" mania, today's up and coming professional is willing to pay out of pocket for a competent life coach, or talent coach. Why make your staffers part with their hard-earned money when performance appraisal is available as a workplace benefit, and can provide much the same developmental value as an expensive "talent coach?" Attend this training to learn how to make the performance appraisal process a high value experience for both the appraiser and the appraised. As a result of attending this workshop, participants will:

- Learn how to deliver performance appraisals that will compel employees to want to achieve top performance.
- Understand how to generate a talent supporting culture where managers and staff look forward to the appraisal event with enthusiasm and eagerness.
- Learn about a performance management system that cultivates and inspires top performance through talent coaching approaches.

- Understand common approaches for preventing pitfalls and paybacks associated with adversarial appraisal approaches.

Leadership Series Module 1: Making the Transition to Management

This workshop designed to help managers develop an awareness of what is involved in transitioning into management and provide an understanding of the best way to establish credibility and build respect as a manager. Participants will be able to understand management and supervisory duties and responsibilities to the agency; to the employees; to the co-workers; to the clients; and to special client populations such as the abused, neglected, or exploited older and/or disabled adults

Leadership Series Module 4: Staffing

There's no better way to increase productivity, improve morale and achieve organizational goals than to hire the right person – the right time. Yet selecting the right people is a skill few managers master. Employee selection decisions should be based on facts and information, not on instincts or "gut hunches". The selection interview techniques participants will learn can be simply and easily put into practice and are applicable to all types of jobs and positions. Participants will develop specific interview questions to assess attitudes, skills, characteristics, traits and values necessary for providing services to special client populations such as aging and senior populations, vulnerable adults or adults with disabilities. The emphasis throughout the workshop is giving participants the tools needed to make successful real-life hiring decisions.

Leadership Series Module 5: Directing

Managers and supervisors at all levels need to have positive methods of dealing effectively with people at all levels and establishing and maintaining highly productive work environments. A cornerstone to these skills is a sound understanding of human behavior and human relations. This workshop will help supervisors and managers improve communication skills, enhance their understanding of employee motivation, assess skills of workers in and improve their relationships with their supervisors, peers and employees. Participants will learn how to use a parallel process of effective decision making and client empowerment when supervising staff providing direct services to older adults or those working in Adult Protective Services (APS) positions through improved understanding of human behavior and communication skills.

So You Want to Be a Supervisor

Good preparation is a key element to any plan, particularly a plan that includes getting promoted to a supervisory position. This workshop helps prepare you to assume the responsibilities of supervision by providing tips as to how to develop a “promotable image” and equips you with an understanding of the basics of supervision. Learn about supervisory responsibilities including goal, purpose and vision setting, performance management, team building, problem solving, and conflict resolution. Prepare yourself to supervise effectively in a helping agency where vulnerable adults, children and the elderly can count on you to guide and develop your workers a manner that ultimately provides customers with competent and courteous service delivery. The purpose of this workshop is to provide those thinking of becoming a supervisor an overview of the organizational dynamics of a social service organization and the supervisor’s role in shaping them. This course is foundational to providing clinical supervision in the future.

To Lead or Not to Lead: That is the Question

The role of a supervisor is like the role of a parent. Supervisors need to provide guidance, support motivation and feedback. The most important factor in employee productivity is the relationship between employee and supervisor. However, this relationship can be damaged when supervisors must make unpopular decisions to provide unwanted but necessary feedback. This workshop will explore these dynamics.
